

Three Rivers Waldorf School
Enrollment Probationary Period Policy & Form

New students are initially admitted for a trial period of up to nine-weeks, during which both the family and school may review the student's progress and compatibility with the class. If the student withdraws or is asked to leave during this trial period for any reason, tuition and fees are due and payable up to and including the month of withdrawal.

Three Rivers Waldorf School seeks to create a community of families, teachers and staff working together for the benefit of our children. We do not anticipate requesting that a child leave the school. Where a problem exists the teacher will meet with the family to discuss possible solutions, striving to arrive at a mutually agreeable solution.

While Three Rivers Waldorf School and Waldorf education do offer a therapeutic environment, it must be recognized that we are not able to provide individual therapy to children at this time. Some supplementary services may be available at the school to children with some types of special needs. We recognize that while our programs can be supportive of a broad spectrum of developmental needs, we may not be able to meet the needs of every child. The school's probationary period exists to determine if an optimum learning environment can be provided for each individual.
